San Diego: Rancho Bernardo family package from $199

California, San Diego

Why Go:

San Diego may have a case if it tried to wrest the "Vacationland" motto away from Maine. With ample sun, low humidity, great Mexican food, famous golf courses, and resorts like the Rancho Bernardo Inn, you can find a vacation without even trying. Check out the resort's Kids Rule, Parents Drool package for some ideas about what your children may want to do this summer. Maybe this T+L description of the Inn's golf course will make you drool: "At 6,631 yards, this old-style William Bell course isn't long by today's standards. It does, however, give recreational golfers all the challenge they might want, along with pleasing aesthetics, fine conditioning and a rare chance for long hitters to semi-retire their drivers and think their way around a golf course."

Kids Rule package includes:

- › Overnight accommodations
- › Free breakfast, lunch, and dinner at Veranda for guests 10 and under
- › In-room pizza
- › Free participation in resort's activities: mini-golf, Wii lounge, dive-in movie, fun fitness, fountains walking tour, Little Picassos chalk art
